Introduction

The East Asian Studies Students' Union (EASSU) is an active student body dedicated to the undergraduate students of the East Asian Department. Throughout the year we hold both academic and social events that relate to the East Asian cultures. If you are interested in getting involved, please contact us - eassu@yahoo.ca or drop by our office - Robarts Library, 14th floor, Rm 14299.

Difficulty	2	4	15	62	12	2	0	3.8
Learn Exp	0	0	0	29	34	20	14	5.2

Students thoroughly enjoyed the material and found Guisso to be a very engaging and enthusiastic lecturer. His anecdotes and side stories were very much appreciated, and he was always available for any inquiries. Some students felt that he spoke a little too quickly, and was a bit disorganized at times - a more thorough course outline would have been helpful.

Students found the tutorials to be of little value. They felt that the readings for tutorials should have been geared more towards the course material, and not be of a supplementary nature.

Students had a few problems with Wu. Those who commented complained that Wu often came to class late. Equally emphasized was that students who had a Chinese background should have been removed because it was not fair to those who did not.

As for the class, some students pointed out that the class was not well organized, and the 25% oral was weighted too heavily.

46 EAST ASIAN

Learn Exp 4 2 12 26 14 18 21 4.8

Students praised Cazdyn for his passion and his enthusiasm for the material. The praise was tempered by feelings that the readings were difficult. Too many films were required and the subject matter was sometimes difficult or too broad.

Other comments espoused the belief that the course was more suited to 3rd or 4th year.

Instructor(s): G. Sanders

Enr: 139	Resp: 115							Retake: 36%

Several students found that the discussion-based format of the course made it possible to understand the readings and films on a much deeper level. However, because of the relatively high amount of required readings, several students could not come to class entirely prepared, which in turn impeded the discussions.

Some students felt it would have been more logical for the second draft of the term paper to be weighted more heavily than the first.
