Learn Exp	0	3	5	24	17	29	20	5.3

Most of the class found the course and readings interesting. Newman's knowledge and organized lectures were impressive. Students were encouraged to critically analyze issues and engage in a dialogue. They thought that Newman was helpful, accessible and inspiring, but her lecture style was dry at times. Some said she spoke too quickly and didn't give students enough time to look at the slides. Some really liked the guest lecturers claiming these supplemented the course well. The readings were dense and long but very valuable.

NEW 211Y1Y Introduction to Bengali

Instructor(s): I. Hasnu

Learn Exp	0	0	0	23	23	46	7	5.4

Deep was referred to as "a sweet, helpful, and extremely dedicated instructor". She effectively taught a language course to a diverse level of students. Some found the material very challenging and the tests difficult. Students suggested putting a placement test to determine language ability - some students were already very fluent in Hindi so they had a huge advantage. A few recommended grading non-native speakers differently from fluent or native Hindi speakers to ensure fairness.

Shiu was a very good instructor because he motivated students. He was also compassionate and extremely helpful. Coming to class every week was a lot of fun and the course was a good learning experience.

NEW 224Y1Y Caribbean Thought I

Instructor(s): A. Itwaru

Enr: 68	Resp: 35							Retake: 84%
	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	Mean

Difficulty	0	0	0	76	11	5	5	4.4
Learn Exp	0	3	3	22	12	25	32	5.5

Many students found the course beneficial and an "eye-opening experience". It brought issues encountered through popular media and Caribbean community to light. Itwaru was very good at challenging students and making them study issues with new perspectives. He was very enthusiastic, but at times, was redundant at discussing concepts. A few suggested having more structure on lectures to make them more organized and non-repetitive.

NEW 240Y1Y Introduction to Equity Studies

Instructor(s): J. Larkin

Enr: 167	Resp: 131							Retake: 95%

Students were really pleased with Larkin's teaching. She was praised for her enthusiasm, organization and approachability. Her lectures were easy to follow with excellent use of visual aids and references.

Tutorials and guest speakers really solidified students' understanding. Past assignments were made available for reference and review. Many students were eager to take other courses taught by her. A few students complained about her fast pace in teaching.

NEW 261Y1Y Scientific Constructions of Sex and Gender

Instructor(s): J. Larkin

Enr: 161	Resp: 125							Retake: 78%

Learn Exp	0	1	1	13	22	33	28	5.7

Larkin was praised to be a very personable and friendly instructor. She was attentive, understanding, and considerate to her students. She was very knowledgeable of the course material and presented it with good examples and interesting videos.

A few students complained about her quick pace in lectures and the heavy amount of reading. Extra tutorials would have been helpful and more smaller assignments/quizzes would have been more advantageous.

Instructor(s): K. Morgan

Enr: 147	Resp: 88							Retake: 72%
	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	Mean
Presents	2	3	14	29	31	13	4	4.4

Difficulty	0	0	10	52	28	8	0	4.3
Learn Exp	3	0	6	34	18	28	9	4.9

The material was interesting, but there were "too many concepts, theories and information" to learn in such a limited time. The readings were long and heavy, the tests were difficult, and the full-length movies were unnecessary. Students suggested showing only important clips and giving handouts related to the topics and material. Some also recommended focussing on major concepts and themes and thoroughly studying these to get a better understanding of the course.

Morgan was humorous and knowledgeable.

Learn Exp	0	0	8	14	22	20	34	5.6

For a second year course, it was difficult and very demanding. The readings were complex and a bit hard to digest. Writing 19 short papers and weekly responses was too much for some students. Both instructors were well-prepared and very knowledgeable. They effectively linked the reading material with the concepts taught in class. They were very supportive, approachable and encouraging. Their idea of "prompts" helped students to focus on what was important in the readings and improved their writing skills. The course was certainly an excellent preparation for Women Studies despite the heavy workload!

NEW 302Y1Y C.G. Jung: Stories, Dilemmas, Rituals

Learn Exp	0	0	0	20	10	60	10	5.6

Yeoman structured "an intensely stimulating class". She was very "passionate, knowledgeable, warm, challenging and tough." She encouraged students to look at art, movies and literature more analytically. Students really enjoyed the course and Yeoman's teaching.

NEW 303H1F The Hypothesis of the Unconscious

Instructor(s): A. Yeoman

Enr: 16	Resp: 9							Retake: 100%

Learn Exp	0	0	0	0	0	42	57	6.6

Several students stated that Yeoman was insightful, interesting and a wonderful instructor. Students felt engaged by the material and wished the class was a year long course. One student said, "I wish there had been more time."

NEW 308H1F Satyajit Ray: Paradigms of Vision

Instructor(s): K. O'Connell

Enr: 23	Resp: 18							Retake: 81%

Difficulty	5	5	11	72	5	0	0	3.7
Learn Exp	14	0	0	14	35	21	14	4.8

While some students identified O'Connell as being engaging and knowledgeable about the course material, others thought she was too subjective. Several students expressed that the presentation of lectures could have been more organized and less "read off the notes" style.

As far as the course material, several students felt enlightened at the calibre of film making and impact Satyajit Ray had in India and the world. Students said they felt enriched by the experience. However, students also felt there could have been more critical analysis of the films and less subjective discussion.

NEW 322Y1Y The Contemporary African Novel

Instructor(s): D. Eyoh

Enr: 17	Resp: 12							Retake: 87%

Difficulty	0	0	0	30	46	7	15	5.1
Learn Exp	0	0	4	28	23	33	9	5.1

Rittich was a good instructor who knew her material well. However, she spoke quickly at times which made it difficult for some students to take notes, especially since some were unfamiliar with the "law language". Some were unhappy with the 60% paper and the difficult test. The readings were lengthy and difficult to keep up with, though the contents were interesting.

NEW 367H1F Women and Health

Learn Exp	0	0	7	39	32	17	3	4.7

Students praised Rose's enthusiasm, friendliness, and humour. She was enlightening and presented the material. However, she was a little unorganized and did not go into too much depth. Students would have preferred more overheads and powerpoint presentations. The tutorial sessions were generally helpful in understanding the course material.

NEW 368H1S Gender and Cultural Differences: Transnational Perspectives
