

Introduction

The East Asian Studies Students' Union (EASSU) is an active student body dedicated to the undergraduate students of the East Asian Department. Throughout the year we hold both academic and social events that relate to the East Asian cultures. If you are interested in getting involved, please contact us - eassu@yahoo.ca or drop by our office - Robarts Library, 14th floor, Rm 14299.

Students found the instructor to be very enthusiastic and passionate about the material. He was also very knowledgeable in the area, but this also caused the lectures to be unfocused. Students found that they needed heavy reliance on the reading materials because lectures lacked emphasis on important points.

Some students felt that there was not enough information covered on Japan and Korea.

EAS 104Y1Y Elementary Vietnamese

Difficulty	0	20	20	40	0	20	0	3.8
Learn Exp	0	0	0	0	40	20	40	6.0

Nguyen was described as very enthusiastic, a good lecturer and catered to students' needs. She was very supportive, even outside of class, giving extra help and support to students.

The course was seen positively, especially as there were often a lot of supplementary materials brought to class that helped with vocabulary and oral practice. The test however was seen as confusing as the instructions were not clear enough. Also, the course moved very quickly, so it was difficult to keep track of material such as grammar that would normally require more consistent review.

Learn Exp	0	1	1	14	7	31	43	6.0

A number of students praised Arimori as an enthusiastic and very good instructor. A few students wished he could teach the 200-level of this course. Some felt that there were too many quizzes. However, students felt that Arimori's organization, quality of teaching and humour made this one of the most enjoyable courses.

Comments were mostly all referring to the fact that the course was relying too closely on the textbook instead of oral teaching. Also, students stated that they would have preferred to have more oral practice. A few noted that Yan would speak in Chinese assuming that everyone understood while this was not the case.

EAS 206Y1Y Classical Chinese

Students generally felt that Sakaki was a really nice person and evidently very intelligent. However, some felt her lecturing style was difficult to follow and her use of the microphone was lacking in consistency, as sometimes she would be too quiet or unclear. Students complained that she was not fluid enough in her lectures by over explaining certain points unnecessarily.

This section of the course was challenging for many students and the workload excessive. The quizzes were too specific and the time was too short (15 mins). Lecture slides were too long and disorganized for some and they wished Sakaki posted them on line.

Students had mixed opinions about Kawashima. He was described as very intellectual and that his lecturing style was very engaging. However, many students found him difficult to understand and that his expectations were too high. The language he used was often difficult to understand. Some students felt that Kawashima was passionate and an extraordinary instructor, whereas others felt he was not responsive enough to students' concerns and sometimes unprepared for his lectures.

Students had divided views on this part of the course. Some felt the material was very useful, but others felt it was far too advanced and irrelevant for their studies. Some felt that Kawashima marked too harshly and that the readings were too hard. They commented on how the course lacked organization and would have been better if they could have had a course website.

Students fully enjoyed the experience of this course taught by Kim. Most found him very humorous. A few students recommended that more feedback on the tests would have been helpful, and one student complained about the number of native speakers in the course, due to the many absences in class. Overall, Kim was a passionate teacher who made the course very enjoyable.

Many students enjoyed the course. Students liked the weekly question papers and found them really helpful for their learning experience. While the majority found the class discussions enjoyable and interesting, some felt they were not well-structured and somewhat intimidating. Some students also thought the participation mark was weighed more heavily than necessary. Many students liked the readings and material in the second half, although some students found the material in the first half somewhat confusing - more background information on neoliberalism could have been provided to help in their learning.

Song was a very attentive and enthusiastic instructor. Her encouragement of discussion in class helped create an environment for open discussion and her individual conference provided helpful comments and suggestions. The weekly reading responses in class were also very helpful. She also encouraged students to attend events and seminars related to the class and gave bonus marks for attending them. Overall, a great class.
