ANTI-CALENDAR

published by the Arts & Science Students' Union

EDITOR'S NOTES:

Welcome to the 2011 Summer ASSU ANTI-CALENDAR. This edition includes the reviews of courses that were offered in the Summer 2011.

Thank you to the all instructors who participated in the summer evaluation process and to all the students who took the time to fill out the forms. The Departments also play a big role in the course evaluation process and so, I would like to take this time to thank them as well.

To my co-workers and the ASSU Executive, thank you for helping with the packaging, delivering and summarizing the evaluations. Special thanks goes to Yoko for typing this edition!

This course was an outstanding course. Many students found Lehman an amazing instructor who was extremely enthusiastic, engaging and funny. His lectures were organized, and he used very good examples which were relevant to the course material. Not only was he knowledgeable, but he was also helpful and made the class very enjoyable. Some students found readings for the Archaeology section heavy and difficult. They also would have liked to have their first assignment back before the second assignment was due, so that they could have improved from the feedback. Assignments were also not related to the class material. Overall, a very enjoyable course and a great learning experience.

This was an interesting course with a good instructor who was knowledgeable. However, many students were unhappy with the midterms. The time allotted (45 minutes) was not nearly enough for the test. The test also was more difficult than the practise test and what was taught in class. The second term test was significantly harder than the first. The class itself was also a little rushed because there was a lot of material to cover over a short period of time.

This was a very interesting course with a great enthusiastic instructor. The things that students liked about the course was the co-operative midterm, which was very effective because students got to discuss each question with their peers and gain a higher mark. They also appreciated the lecture notes being available before class, although it would have been better if it was powerpoint form and not a PDF file. The field trip had mixed reviews. Some found it fun and useful while others found it unhelpful and unorganized. They suggested providing transportation as well. Students did not like the textbook. The poster project was interesting, but it was expensive and the process was not explained to them clearly.

Students had a couple of concerns about this course. They did not like that tests were all multiple choice. Also there were a lot of questions. Some students commented that some of the questions required pure memorization. His lectures were interesting and Tepperman was a good lecturer, however, there were too many slides and that resulted in going through the slides too quickly.
